SUJIT CHOUDHRY

Dear Tyann,

Please forgive the formality of providing you this typed note.

I write to express my deepest remorse and regret for having hurt you. I take ownership of my conduct, and I am truly sorry for the pain and stress you have experienced through these past months.

It was never my intention to act in any way that would demean or disrespect you, and I take full responsibility for the indignity you have suffered.

I have reflected upon my conduct, and learned a great deal, and every day I wish I had the opportunity to go back and mend things.

I offer you my most sincere apology.

Sincerely,
